Matthew Desmond Pulitzer Prize Winning Author of EVICTED Poverty and Profit in the American City

Thursday, November 14, 2019

7:30 pm

Join author Matthew Desmond for an informative lecture and discussion on his award 2016 winning book, Evicted. Based on years of embedded fieldwork and painstakingly gathered data, this masterful book transforms our understanding of extreme poverty and economic exploitation while providing fresh ideas for solving a devastating, uniquely American problem. Its unforgettable scenes of hope and loss remind us of the centrality of home, without which nothing else is possible. This book and event will empower you with information to empower you to join and change the conversation in our Capital Region community.

“Exhaustively researched, vividly realized and above all, unignorable... after Evicted, it will no longer be possible to have a serious discussion about poverty without having a serious discussion about housing.”

—Jennifer Senior, New York Times

“It doesn’t happen every week (or every month, or even year), but every once in a while a book comes along that changes the national conversation... Evicted looks to be one of those books.”

—Pamela Paul, New York Times Book Review

“Evicted is that rare book that both enlightens and serves as an urgent call for action.”

—William Julius Wilson
Harvard University, and author of
When Work Disappears

About the Author Matthew Desmond is a professor of sociology at Princeton University. The principal investigator of The Eviction Lab, Desmond’s research focuses on poverty in America, city life, housing insecurity, public policy, racial inequality, and ethnography. He is the recipient of a MacArthur “Genius” Fellowship, the American Bar Association’s Silver Gavel Award, and the William Julius Wilson Early Career Award. A contributing writer for the New York Times Magazine, Desmond was listed in 2016 among the Politico 50, as one of “fifty people across the country who are most influencing the national political debate.”
